ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A package carrier has multiple ceramic substrates and a frame with a polymid tape. The frame has multiple through holes for receiving the ceramic substrates. The ceramic substrates are packaged with chips. The frame is made of plastic so the package carrier can be easily cut to separate individual electronic devices. The present invention combines individual ceramic substrates with the plastic frame so the cutting time can be reduced and the quantity of electronic devices fabricated is increased.